

Need an Image?

Use these websites first when searching for an online image.

Citation & attribution information is easy to find & clearly stated.

Sites provide free images and/or videos, most are copyright free or are in the public domain.

ALWAYS read the guidelines for use or licensing agreements.

TCA requires citations when work is done for an academic project.

Librarian's Top 3 Online Image Websites

- ♦ Creative Commons (ccsearch.creativecommons.org) : Search openly licensed and public domain works. Find attribution and citation information under the image.
- ♦ Pics4Learning (pics4learning.com) : Safe, free and copyright-friendly images for educational use. Basic citation information is clearly given next to the chosen image.
- ♦ PhotosForClass (photosforclass.com) : Age appropriate images from Creative Commons with citation information given in the download of the image.

More Online Image Search Websites

- ⇒ Pixabay (pixabay.com) : Options to filter results for image types, sizes, orientations, etc. Attribution requirements given on right side of image page. Creator information given on image page.
- ⇒ Flickr (flickr.com) : After searching for image, click "Any License" dropdown to specify use & "Advanced" for filtering options. Check licensing for individual image under the date of image & click the words in blue use rules.
- ⇒ Pexels (pexels.com) : Search free stock images & videos. Attribution is appreciated & creator information given on image page. Permission to modify or edit images is given.

Other Types of Online Media Websites

- * StockFootageForFree (stockfootageforfree.com) : Search free stock footage & videos from around the world. Easy to download & used in any type of project. Citation information given above the video clip.
- * MorgueFile (morguefile.com) : Click "Free Photos" at the top of home page to search subject or topics more easily. Creator information given to the left of image on image page.
- * Image After (imageafter.com) : Search images or textures to download for use. High resolution textures of metals, floors, skin, wood, rock, etc.